Any Good Bonds?
O. H. Kahn, Interpreter,
Useful Skyscrapers.
Britain Saves Oil.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

HAVE you any good bonds, representing real value with plenty to spare. If so, Dr. Friday, deep economist, says don't sell them. The supply of capital is increasing faster than the supply of good bonds. Consequently, bonds will go higher. But this means GOOD bonds.

OTTO H. KAHN must utter certain platitudes, such as "always be first at the office, last to leave, and never look at the clock." But unlike some others, he also says things worth while. For instance, "the ancients had a saying, 'those whom the gods love, die young.' I interpret that to mean that one should remain young until the hour of passing comes."

THAT new interpretation is correct. The best men die young, because they never grow old. "Every child is a genius, every genius is a child."

Wagner, Tolstoy, Goethe, were young when they died in old age. Pope Leo, when this writer saw him celebrating his jubilee, in Michael Angelo's magnificent church in Rome, had the smile of a child, although he was past eighty, his thin face almost transparent.

THIS about skyscrapers may change the foolish opinion that would limit their height.

A tall skyscraper protects from lightning buildings near it. New York's Woolworth building, for instance, protects all buildings within a radius of eleven hundred feet square around it.

THE World building, recently struck by lightning, would not have been struck had it been 200 feet nearer the Woolworth building—that is, assuming it was not an intentional act of Providence. This should make it easy to protect oil tanks by grouping them around high steel masts, copper sheathing, for greater conductivity.

NEWS from Great Britain, encouraging for speculators in oil stocks, is bad for the United States as a whole. The British seek to denounce the world's oil supply. This first plan, very intelligent, is to "drain the United States supply."

BRITAIN conserves and saves oil where she controls the land above it, and urges buying and using up the United States oil supply.

If that continues it will settle the question of our "oil surplus" in a fashion disturbing to owners of big and little motor cars.

It is fortunate our navy succeeded in keeping part of its own oil reserves. Let's HOPE that, won't be drained.

ERNEST BOYD, clever Irishman, writer and critics, says "The Southern states are not Yankee and never will be. The South resembles the North no more than England resembles Spain."

Mr. Boyd would cut the United States into three nations, North, South and West, because men cannot be "genuinely patriotic over a whole continent."

MR. BOYD'S idea is not new. Wise ancient Greeks said a nation couldn't survive unless all the citizens could gather in the public square and hear their chief men speak. Newspapers and radio have adjusted that.

A MAN raising grapefruit in Miami and a man driving dogs in Alaska, don't find their country too big. They are proud of their 48 states, working for free co-operation, and would advise Europe to go and do the same.

THE young murderer, Hickman, who kidnapped a girl 12 years old, killed her and sold her mutilated body to her father for $1,500, shouted to the reporters as he started for San Quentin Prison, "boys, they have given me a one-way ticket to the gallows."

The vicious young killer actually considers himself ill-treated, and complained that officers of the law hunting him down "must be hard up for money to want that reward."

400 HOMELESS

Hundreds Isolated; Nevada Dam Menaces Reno.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 26.—Rescue parties today were struggling to reach Liberty island in the Sacramento river on which 20 persons are feared drowned in a flood which swept down here last night.

Ranchers Were Warned According to N. R. Taylor, chief of the weather bureau, ranchers on the island were warned yesterday but refused to leave. The island is completely under water today, he said, and no reports have been received that the residents left their homes.

Taylor reported a 30-foot rise in the water, stating that guages were swept away at 28 feet. While the American river was reported slightly lower today the Sacramento river is still rising rapidly, Taylor said.

Four Hundred Are Homeless.

Frantic calls for motor boats have been sent up and down the river as more than 600 persons are reported isolated in homes buried to the caves in water.

Fire Chief Carlson of North Sacramento reported that he was standing in 18 inches of water in his garage while telephoning. The business district is under water, some places nine feet deep he said.

Eighteen Missing.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 26.—One man was drowned, 18 are missing and more than 400 were made homeless today when the American river boomed over its banks and inundated North Sacramento.

Trans-Continental Bus Service Planned

Merger of 232 Companies Will Make Coast-to-Coast Trip Possible in Six Days and Six Nights at Cost of $56.50.

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN

NEW YORK, March 26.—Trans-continental bus service, New York to Los Angeles, will be started soon, if plans now under way go through without a hitch, a gigantic merger, involving 232 bus companies from coast to coast, will make the service possible. The trip will require six days and six nights and the cost will be $56.50, half of the present railroad fare.

The system, operated under the National Motor Bus Association, Chicago, will connect the independent lines now in operation, and will include equipment, valued at more than $15,000,000, not including state franchises.

Plan Sleepers, Diners.

Traffic in the east will be handled by the Cardinal Stages, which operates between New York and Philadelphia. Other large companies are the Interstate Motor Bus Lines, Western Motorway, Pacific Coast Lines and Southern Transportation Lines.

Final papers making effective this first trans-continental bus merger were reported to have been signed at a conference in the Hotel Commodore, this city, on Saturday. Details as to how the cross-country traffic will be handled are now being worked out, according to Martin Rubin, New York legal representative of the company.

Air Travel Also Proposed.

Rubin said that last year there were 95,000 buses operating in the United States, carrying more passengers than the combined railroads. The group entering the present merger, he asserted, carried more passengers than any one railroad outside of the Pennsylvania system.

The trans-continental bus service is expected to be in operation within a few weeks. Air travel will be inaugurated later, according to a spokesman for Herman F. Wenzel, president of the new company, several Ford-Stout air liners are said to be included in the merger and others are to be added. The fare by air to Los Angeles will be $225.

Daisy and Violet Hilton,
Exactly Alike in Face
Ceramic Theatre.

People who see Daisy and Violet Hilton, the San Antonio's "Siamese Twins," at the Ceramic theatre this week, will notice that these girls look exactly alike in face and figure. Of course, from across the footlights! The dissimilarities might not be apparent, and one of the questions that every one asks is—"Are the Siamese Twins exactly alike in looks?"

The answer is that they are as nearly alike as it is possible for any two human beings to be. They are more alike than any other types of identical twins, because besides having a common life-germ origin, they have necessarily passed through the same experiences and been exposed to the same influences since birth.

Other identical twins, not joined together, may look alike to the casual observer. But different paths in life have made some differences. One may have taken more exercise and become a trifle harder; the other may have had a severe accidental sickness, and so on. But the "Siamese Twins" have passed through essentially the same environmental influences in life, and consequently there has been nothing in their experiences to cause them to differ.

have been excavated on the site of the ancient city of Kish in Mesopotamia.

Word of the discovery has just been received by the Field Museum of Natural History here from the Field Museum-Oxford university joint expedition to Mesopotamia.

The heavy discs on which some warrior of Kish rode into battle more than 5,000 years ago will be brought here for exhibit, giving the Field Museum a unique place among the museums of the world, it was announced immediately after word of the find was received here.

Henry Field, assistant curator of physical anthropology of the museum, made the discovery, according to the report.

The wheels were found buried 45 feet deep, over the remains of the ancient Sumerian city, thought to have been the seat of the world's most ancient civilization. They are estimated to belong to the period between 3200 and 300 B. C.

Somewhat Crumpled.

Although in a somewhat crumpling state after their thousands of years' sojourn beneath the ground, the central wooden portions of the disc wheels are practically intact, the report states.

About two feet in diameter, the wheels are bound with a rim two inches deep and are studded with copper nails on the contact surface.

Members of the expedition are at work strengthening the wheels so that they may be brought to Chicago.

Two pieces of copper, found near the wheels, were thought to have been pieces of harness, used to keep the driving reins in place.

A tomb dating prior to 300 B. C. has been opened by the expedition.

During the time the expedition has been at work, almost two years, a series of tombs have been opened, yielding, according to Field, a wealth of information regarding the people who so many thousands of years ago maintained a high degree of civilization.

The people of Kish, as they have been revealed through the ruins uncovered, lived in comparatively modern ease while the rest of the world was involved in struggling through a stagnant darkness of barbarism and ignorance.

Silver and bronze art objects were yielded by the tombs. Ornaments, gold and lapis-lazuli beaded chains, fine painted pottery and photographic tablets have indicated a high degree of art appreciation a thousand or so years in advance of the rest of the world. Apparently the citizens of Kish were wealthy in their own system of art and good living.

Other Rich Finds.

Furniture of various kinds was found as well as vessels of earth, copper and stone.

One of the richest finds of the expedition was, Field said, the temple of the earth goddess, Harsackalama.

A total of 88 individual skeleton remains have been excavated by Field. Several nearly complete skulls of ancient Sumerian citizens and one almost complete skeleton were included. These are expected to throw new light

Suspicion and Facts

The accredited investigator of the United States Senate public lands committee, sent to Marion on the announced suspicion that some trace of the so-called Continental Trading company Liberty bonds might be found in the estates of Mr. and Mrs. Harding, has returned to Washington. As those who knew the two anticipated, he departed without having found the slightest trace of the missing securities.

The explanation of his failure is easy. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Harding ever had any of the securities so zealously sought by the Senate committee.

At the time of her death Mrs. Harding had $65,500 in Liberty bonds and Mr. Harding left $18,750 in such securities, but only two of all the Liberty bonds in the two estates were of the First Issue and they were for $500 each, whereas all the so-called Continental bonds were of that issue, but of $1,000 denomination.

Mr. Harding came into possession of $97,500 of the $182,750 Liberty bonds left by him as his part of the $120,000 in bonds owned by the Marion Star which, by the agreement of the parties thereto, were not included in the sale of the Star. Other bonds to the value of $50,000 were bought by him with the down payment made by the purchasers of his newspaper and the remaining bonds of the face value of $35,250 were purchased by him from time to time as he had the means with which to acquire them.

The investigation made by the representative of the Senate committee came close upon the heels of a statement made by its chairman, Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, announcing that his committee proposed to look into the estate of the late President Harding in which he expressed what he said was his personal belief that "there would be a lack of satisfaction if this committee submits a report to the Senate without determining whether there were any Continental bonds involved in Mr. Harding's estate."

It is hard for us to believe that this was the impelling motive of the committee. Certainly it could not have been that of the member, or members, of the Senate committee who was, or were, so desirous of involving the name of the dead president in the matter, that the ordinary course of procedure followed in such investigations was abandoned and the alleged suspicion was voiced first and the matter of investigating it taken up later, and this, too, despite Senator Nye's statement that he did not expect to find and had no reason for expecting to find as a result of the investigation of the two estates any of the bonds sought.

The immediate result was that the senator's announcement that the two estates would be investigated on "suspicion," was given first page position under glaring headline, and in many cases under streamers, in practically every daily paper in the country, while, we regret to say, the fact that the suspicion was utterly without foundation, was run by practically all the papers which came to us under small heads and "buried" in inside pages, from which we glean the relative value a sensational press places upon suspicions and facts.

But it may be well that the investigation has been made, for it is time that the vilification of the late President Harding should cease. We do not recall that there has ever been a man in the history of our nation who has attained to high position who has been so persistently libeled, slandered and defamed as the late president has been since his death, and on charges too, as utterly baseless as the suspicion published by Senator Gerald Nye has proved.

But even though the result may have worked for good in the present case, the fact remains that no man's reputation is safe against assault by members of our legislative bodies.

When, in framing our basic law, immunity for any utterance they might make in pursuance of their duties was conferred upon our legislators, it is hardly possible that the framers ever imagined that the time would come when those elevated to positions then held in high honor would take advantage of this immunity and resort to the assassination of the reputations of the living, much less to unwarranted assaults upon the good name of the dead. The practice, of late, has become so pronounced that the situation cries out for correction. Our lawmakers should be stripped of such immunity. If the common decencies of life are not to be observed in our legislative halls from inclination, the protection afforded by the law to those who betray them should be swept away that they, like those for whom they make the laws, may be made amenable to the law.

The Cane Crook

"Cane crooks" are said to be reaping a harvest in New York. If the reader wants to know what sort of crooks they are, the answer is, men who steal canes. There are those who make a regular business of it. Also a good living.

They find easy picking because the cane, which for some years has been under a moderate ban even in the metropolis, is having a regular vogue again. Men are said to be carrying sticks there almost as "gentlemen" are expected to do in the Old World. Fortunately for the thieves, they carry mostly straight sticks, some of which are very valuable, and which can't be hooked over the wearer's arm or hung on a hatrack, but must be stood up in a corner where it is easy for the crooks to walk away with them.

And that is all right with the average American, who is provincial enough to think that a cane as an article of apparel is as superfluous as a third shoe.

Where the cane belongs is in the country. It is a fine accessory to an enjoyable tramp in the woods, and the user can cut one for the occasion every time he goes out, without fear of anyone running away with it.

Fall and Sinclair may be pronounced innocent, but Uncle Sam has got back his oil.

Anger, says Prof. Gene Tunney, has no place in the ring. It makes a powerful punch, but spoils the aim.

Modern business terminology is nothing if not nifty, and so we're going to have "spaced payments" instead of "instalment buying." However, they're spaced, there will be as much stalling on them as ever.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26.—Prosperity is one of the most amazing phenomena of modern civilization. It is something that everybody would like to have, and to understand the why and wherefore when it eludes them. It is the mistress of every man, however happily married he may be. It is a condition and not a reality with the average man; with those who have never known it, it is a lot of blah.

It is something that is here today and gone tomorrow, and nobody has ever been able to adduce conclusive proof as to why that should be the case.

With some people prosperity is a carefully planned out, worked-out result; with others it is a synonym for luck. Some people get it because they deserve it; others, no one knows why.

It is a subject that politicians make speeches about; economists write books about it. Politicians make speeches about it when we have it or when we don't have it; economists write books about it all the time. People who are enjoying prosperity should worry about speeches or books! Those who are wooing the elusive goddess are too busy to listen or to read. And there you are.

Paul M. Mazur, of New York, a banker, and therefore necessarily an economist, has written one of the latest books on prosperity, dealing particularly with American prosperity, its causes and consequences. His publishers say it is interesting to the highest degree, not to say startling, yet that it is based on the soundest common sense.

American business is a strange and marvelous creation, the author says. Growing up from the simple job of filling local needs, industry has become a task-master who exacts of the consumer an increasing market for products which the consumer must often be taught to desire. From beginnings that were marked by plentiful raw material and a shortage of labor, there grew up a system of mass production that has become a wonder and a mystery to the rest of the world. Mass production required the services of high-pressure distribution to find markets that would allow it to operate at its fullest; and from this need sprang the mechanism of advertising and salesmanship that is so characteristically American.

Whatever argument there may be as to whether we are enjoying real national prosperity when certain lines of business and certain groups of workers are in a relatively bad way, Mr. Mazur says that no one can deny that the total income of the nation is greater than it has been in any previous period, and that no matter in whose hands the buying power of the country rests, that buying power is greater now than ever. No matter whether one or more industries are suffering from a temporary relapse, industry as a whole flourishes on a larger scale than ever before.

In arriving at the causes of the present prosperity of the United States, Mr. Mazur gives due credit to a federal administration that has had conservatism and economy as its watchwords and to the Federal Reserve banking system, and then cites advertising and high pressure selling methods as major factors.

Looking to the future, Mr. Mazur is of the opinion that the next ten years are to be a stirring decade in the annals of American business. New problems are to be solved, he says, new records are to be attained, and new developments to be made will test the ability of new leaders.

He cites the overwhelming demand for the products of quantity manufacturing, saying that the inherent desires and needs of the people are great, but that the needs and desires to which the American consumer has been educated are even greater.

Questions And Answers

By Frederick J. Haskin.

What do you need to know? Is there some point about your business or personal life that puzzles you? Is there something you want to know without delay? Submit your questions to Frederick J. Haskin, Director of our Washington Information Bureau. He is employed to help you. Address your inquiry to the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. Q. How many people visit George Washington's home in a year? H. P. P.

A. The total number of visitors at Mount Vernon during the year 1927 was 448,456.

Q. Are the ancient marble quarries in Greece being worked today? H. T. B.

A. Many of the ancient quarries are being worked. The supply of marble is practically inexhaustible.

Q. At certain places in Alaska, do salmon fill the channel of the river at certain seasons of the year? W. W. P.

A. In some Alaskan streams salmon have at times appeared in such massed numbers as to make it seem that the channel was almost solidly filled with fish. This, however, occurs only during brief periods at the height of the annual runs or migrations of adult salmon from the sea to streams for spawning purposes.

Q. How many cigarettes were made in the United States in 1924? In 1927? D. B. P.

A. In 1924 the registered cigarette factories in the United States manufactured about seventy-three billion cigarettes. In 1927 the registered factories manufactured ninety-seven billion, exclusive of the six or seven billion cigarettes which were manufactured in bonded warehouses for export only.

Q. How did the expression originate—A cat may look at a queen? L. D.

A. It is evidently a parallel of the title of a pamphlet published in 1652 called "A Cat May Look at a King."

Q. How many men were in the Shenandoah when it was wrecked? J. W. C.

A. There were forty-four persons on board. Fourteen men were killed.

Q. Please suggest a method for removing tarnish from copper, brass, and bronze. N. V.

A. Rottenstone mixed with oil to a creamy consistency is the common frictional agent used on these metals. After this cleaner has been applied, the metal should be polished with a soft cloth. A final rubbing with dry rottenstone or whiting will give the metal an even brighter luster.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 26.—Diary of a modern Pepys' Up and talked to Francis Albertini and we discussed old days when I read copy on the Evening Mail, the most depressing of my newspaper experiences. Nor can I pass the site where the building stood without a shudder.

So to a restaurant and few there, yet the waitresses were standing and holding their trays and one told me that was a strict rule, which struck me as silly. And I determined to write a letter to the management, which was equally silly.

In the evening to a musical play of no importance, but sat behind the trap drummer, and his antics amused me more than the performance, and we engaged in talk and he told of coming from a place called Nip's Neck. Then to eat spaghetti and so to bed.

A New Yorker who invites many out-of-towners to his various weekend parties always adds this rare bit of thoughtfulness to his invitations: "Bring your shirt studs."

She stepped from a limousine arrived in evening splendor. Then suddenly her expression was one of amazement. She seemed to shrink as a slowly deflating balloon bobbing across the sidewalk like an ancient flat-footed waiter. Both heels of her evening slippers had crumpled up.

Music publishers say more than 10,000 persons in New York work at obscure jobs while trying to write a popular song, an operetta or music for a musical comedy. Next to writing, composing music attracts, the most followers, yet it is perhaps the most difficult of all fields in which to achieve success. During the last year only two newcomers have won anything like conspicuous success.

There are bootleggers who have reduced chances of arrest to a minimum. They are known as "contacts" and

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

We are a people of fads and fancies. If a thing is the "style," or if it strikes our fancy, it makes no difference what it costs in time, money or trouble. We do thoroughly whatever we undertake.

For these reasons, when we are in the mood to start something, we should make sure it is right and wise. We should know where it will lead us before we begin to practice thefad of the moment.

One of the most compelling of the present day fancies is the craze for the "boyish form." To be fat is the nightmare. To be slender and willowy is the day dream.

Whither is this fad leading us?

What will its pursuit cost us in health, vigor and length of days?

There can be no doubt that danger lurks in this practice of forced reduction. The health of many a misguided woman is being undermined by her efforts to be thin.

Lowered resistance, from the lack of essential food, prepares the way for disease invasion. The use of dangerous drugs for fat reduction is the first step toward physical disaster.

In short, the craze for slenderness and thinness is a foolish, dangerous, unworthy ambition. It is time for you to think about it seriously. It is time for you to realize what may happen if you continue to travel this route.

I cannot understand how any wise person can take a chance on the destruction of health, by resorting to powerful medicines, violent exercises, surgical operations, and abstention from nourishing and sustaining foods. These vital organs and tissues of ours are too delicate and too easily deformed to justify ventures into unnecessary practices which may prove seriously damaging. Like and limb may be endangered by them.

If you owned a horse and treated it as many persons do their bodies in order to reduce, you would be arrested for cruelty to animals, fined $500, and possibly sent to prison for five years. Society would not tolerate such cruel and indecent treatment of a dumb animal.

Suppose you habitually took away from the horse all his oats and half his hay, strapped him in a thick blanket and housed him in a close, hot box-stall; hitched him to a cart and lashed him into full speed, keeping it up for hours at a time—would that be considered cruelty by the average jury? It would be and no excuse of yours could reduce the penalty of the law. You would cry in vain that you were trying to make the horse better looking, to give it a "coltish form."

You smile at this, but fail to apply the thought to your painful, damaging and unscientific attempts at making your body different than Nature intended it to be.

When a Man Goes in for Washing Dishes

"THE best housekeeper I ever had," said a young married woman the other day, "was a man."

"It was in a little village down in Maine where we lived for two years. Maids were scarce and I prevailed upon Joe to help me in the house. Joe had been in the Navy, and later had had his own fishing schooner."

"I have never known a woman who was so scrupulously neat as Joe. The way he washed dishes, for instance, was a lesson in efficiency."

"First he scraped and piled them all according to size. He used Lux for the suds in the dishpan, because, he said, Lux made better suds in half the time of anything else, also because Lux was easier on his hands."

"Sailors, he said, use Lux because their hands are often badly chapped and broken and Lux is soothing."

"Now I myself follow Joe's plan in doing dishes, and I always use Lux. The difference it has made in the looks of my hands is really amazing. Lux keeps them so white and smooth, that I've passed on the hint to my friends."

"Because Lux contains none of the harmful alkali found in many household soaps, whether flakes, chips or cakes, it never irritates even the most sensitive skin, never dries the delicate oils of the hands."

And the big package of Lux washes 6 weeks' dishes.

He Flung Aside a Throne for Love of a Slave!

From the humble ranks of an outcast race she came, and there was in her dark eyes and soft red lips a Strange Power that set her apart from all the other women of that country.

A Despised Alien — A Mere Slip of Daring Womanhood — She Esclaved a Kingdom—and Stole the Heart of its Ruler!

For her a Prince forsook Wife and Throne.

Because of her, a Royal House Crasher to its Ruin—and a Mighty People shook off the chain of bondage and marched to Freedom.

WHO WAS SHE
—this Enchantress?

NOTE

The rise of the famous San Antonio's Siamese Twins—the beautiful, cultured and lovable Hilton Sisters—is one of the marvels of the age. These talented girls, Daisy and Violet Hilton, were born inseparably joined together, at Brighton, England, in 1909, the daughters of an English Army officer. Their mother died a year after their birth. Their father was killed in Belgium in 1914. They were adopted by their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Myer Myers, who devote their entire time to the girls and their activities.

NOTE

Every mother and father, every husband and wife, every son and daughter should witness the achievements of the wonderful children and then remember that life has not been a bed of roses for these little handicapped girls. The Hilton Twins play and sing now for millions for the reason that they have spent days and years at practice. They have health now as a result of their fixed habits of going to bed at 11 o'clock every night and getting up at 7 A. M., taking regular exercise in calisthenics, deep breathing, body bending and then a brisk walk whether they feel like it or not.

They are as careful about their eating as most girls are about the brand of cosmetics they use. In fact they are strict vegetarians, and very much of their pep, vivaciousness and ambition to achieve is the natural result of their living clean lives, thinking wholesome thoughts and cultivating noble purposes.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I met a young man a few weeks ago, while he was here on his vacation. He has taken me out many times, and we have been quite friendly. Should I, before he leaves, ask him to write or should I not say anything and start the correspondence myself?

JUST ME.

JUST ME: If this boy is as interested in you as you seem to imagine, I am sure he will suggest corresponding before he leaves. If he does not mention writing you might, when he leaves, express the desire to hear from him. It is his place to write first, since he is the one going away, and I should not advise you to write until you hear from him.

PERSISTENCE WINS!

STICK TO THE TASK

Persistence wins! Here is the Prince of Wales taking a jump on "Degenome," a favorite horse. His Highness not only "stuck to his horse" but won the race—the Welsh Guards event.

Leaves Hair Twice as Beautiful

In a few minutes time, your hair is soft, silky and radiant with life, gloss and lustre.

To have beautiful, fresh looking hair is simply a matter of proper shampooing.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonsfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft, silky and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

EUREKA SUPER VACUUM REALLY GETS MORE DIRT

Vacuum is the power that cleans your rugs, your carpets, your upholstered furniture. Nothing else can take its place, or do its work.

Greater suction power than that of even former Eurekas is responsible for the amazing cleaning speed and thoroughness of the new improved Eureka. For the Eureka cleans by air alone—air drawn at high velocity through the rug or fabric, loosening and whisking away the deeply embedded dirt and grit.

This principle makes possible the wonderful simplicity, lightness and operating ease of the Eureka, and is also responsible for the unequalled effectiveness of the famous Eureka attachments.

Infant Mortality Is Decreasing

Infant mortality is decreasing steadily under the development of a more thorough knowledge of the scientific care of infants. The average of 101 infant deaths per 1,000 in 1918 was reduced to 76 per 1,000 in 1922 and is even lower at this time. This is a remarkable achievement; credit for which is largely due to better knowledge on the part of patients and a better appreciation of the physicians' importance in the community. When a physician writes a prescription bring it to us to be filled. We are specialists at this work.

TURNER SCORES "LOBBY EVIL"

Attorney General Hits Large Campaign Contributions.

CINCINNATI, O., March 26.—Vowing his belief that "the acceptance of substantial campaign contributions should bar a candidate from office," Attorney General Edward C. Turner delivered an address on "state government," here today before the Kiwanis club.

"The man who accepts campaign contributions is not in a position to drive out the paid lobbyists," continued Turner. "The paid lobbyists is a menace to good government. A governor with the courage of good convictions can drive the paid lobbyist out entirely. The paid lobbyist has no rights whatever. today as the waters of Truckee river began to recede to their normal banks, following a rise in the river that inundated Riverside drive, an adjacent thoroughfare, with three feet of water.

Posses of citizen guards were stationed in the vicinity of the huge structure ready to rush warning to residents of the surrounding country-side in case of a collapse.

The waters, said to stretch for one mile and a half in back of the dam, were swelled to tremendous volume by the prolonged rain storm which has prevailed over north California and northwestern Nevada for the past five days added to the melting of snow in the mountainous heights of the Sierra range.

No loss of life has been reported, although the property damage is believed to be considerable.

A lull in the heavy rainfall has checked the river's rise and it has returned to its normal level, according to reports early today.

NAB SIX MEN IN 'DOPE, WHITE SLAVE RING'

Fred Thomas of Bloomington, Ill., Will Close Two-week Revival Campaign Tuesday.

Detectives Arrest Two Suspects in Steubenville.

HINT GIRL SOLD

Arrests Also Made in Clean-up at Cleveland.

TOLEDO, O., March 26.—Six men, arrested in two Ohio cities over the weekend, today were being questioned concerning a gigantic "dope and white slave ring" which federal authorities say has operated between Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, and other cities.

George Springer and Paul Kline, both about 23, were arrested by detectives at Steubenville. The two are said to have lured a 16 year old high school girl from her home in Detroit. They promised her large commissions and extensive travel in soliciting magazine subscriptions, according to the charges.

When the girl arrived in Steubenville Springer married her and then sold her into white slave traffic, police allege.

Arrests in Cleveland.

At Cleveland, Homer Fife, 38, was arrested Sunday and police believe that he headed the drug selling activities of the ring. William Uerle, 27, of Detroit, for whom Fife says he transported narcotics between Detroit and Toledo, was also arrested in Cleveland.

Two men giving their names as James Thomas, 27, Detroit, and Richard Bains, 38, Cleveland, were also arrested in Cleveland and police say a quantity of drugs was found in their automobile.

Roscoe Dillit, his wife, Dorothy, and William Blewitt, are held in jail here on charges of narcotic law violations, and a number of other alleged agents of the ring are being sought in Saginaw, Mich., Detroit and Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, March 26.—Three suspects were to be arraigned today before federal authorities here today in connection with the alleged operation of a Detroit-Cleveland "dope" ring.

One of the suspects, a Cleveland man, is said by police to be the connecting link in activities of the intercity gang. Detectives say he admitted selling drugs to William Uerle, 29, of Detroit, who was arrested in the Michigan city last week.

The other two men were captured in a Cleveland suburb Saturday, following a chase by police. A quantity of drugs was found in their possession, police said.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, March 26.—General Motors, Hupp and Hudson, the "three musketeers of the motor stocks" as they are now familiarly called in Wall Street, led a riotous advance in prices at the beginning of trading today. It was the beginning of the fourth week of one of the most remarkable upward swings of a selected few of the speculative favorites ever witnessed in Wall Street.

Speculative enthusiasm, generated by John J. Raskob's glowing forecast of the future prospects of General Motors Corporation in 1928, was reflected in the enormous country-wide demand for the stock over the weekend, and the opening price showed a new gain of 4 points. Even this was not sufficient to meet the demands of the wildly enthusiastic buying demand for General Motors shares, and the stock rushed up to 196 1/2 in the first half-hour, compared with Saturday's at 194.

Violent scenes were again exhibited on the floor of the stock exchange as brokers and floor traders crowded around the trading posts in their mad scramble for the stock which has made itself the speculative sensation of the last decade. Blocks of stock ranging from 500 to 10,000 shares on record, and the mechanical facilities changed hands at the highest prices of the stock exchange again proved inadequate for the extremely heavy demands again thrust on them. Mr. Raskob's assurance of a generous extra cash dividend this year was undoubtedly the outstanding factor in inviting such heavy country-wide participation in the buying of the stock.

No loss of life has been reported, although the property damage is believed to be considerable.

A lull in the heavy rainfall has checked the river's rise and it has returned to its normal level, according to reports early today.

CICERO, DESPITE GANG KILLINGS, IS SAFEST PLACE IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, March 26.—Horrors! and other exclamations of surprise what have we here?

Cicero—the reeking back yard of bold bad Chicago, the suburban rendezvous of Chicago gangsters and the notorious headquarters of "Scarface Al" Capone—is the safest place in the state in which to live.

Thus declares a report on mortality statistics issued by the Illinois department of health. The town of Cicero, despite its gang war and killings, has the lowest death rate per 1,000 population of any place in the state, according to the report.

For the year 1927 Cicero's death rate was only 4.93, as compared with Jacksonville, a quiet country place which topped the list with 35.77 deaths per 1,000 inhabitants.

Again, upsetting popular belief, Herrin, Ill., in "Bloody Williamson" county was declared to be the third safest place in the state. Herrin's death rate was 9.06. Forrest Park, another Chicago suburb, was second safest with 6.95.

Chicago's death rate was 11.52 per 1,000 population, a slight increase over downstate centers which average 11.32.

LATEST EVENING WEAR IS EXTREME DECOLLETE

The fashion tendency for milady's after dark attire is towards low neck effects. Here are three smart creations fresh from the couturier. On the left, Billie Dove exhibits an elongated basque of black net, embroidered in rhinestones with a black chantilly lace skirt, tiered irregularly in four layers. Evelyn Brent is in the center picture wearing a gown of white chiffon over white satin embroidered with stars and crystals in a large leaf motif. Following the lines of the figure to just below the hip-line, the chiffon terminates in a cascade of crystal and silk fringe that reaches the ground at the back, but remains smartly short in front. From the right shoulder two bands of crystal-laden chiffon fall, forming a train. The helmet fashioned of crystal leaves embroidered on black net lends a new note. Not a wisp of hair is allowed to appear. The white satin wrap worn by Miss Brent at the right has the leaves and terminates in an upstanding white fox collar.

The smallest single item in the classification of freight traffic consisted of horses and mules. These totaled for the year only 20,000 tons and constituted approximately one one-hundredth of one per cent of the entire movement of freight. In contrast to this, 830,000 tons of motor vehicles were also carried.

The freight tonnage of 1927 fell short by less than 9 per cent of the figures of 1926, and was less than 3 per cent under those of 1925. It exceeded by nearly 4 per cent the tonnage of 1924. Of the total decline in business during 1927, as compared with the previous year, more than three-fifths, or approximately 13,200,000 tons, were accounted for by the decreased movement of bituminous coal.

Manufactures and miscellaneous products contributed $6,675,303 tons or 26 per cent of the whole. Products of agriculture totaled 10,766,874 tons, products of the forests 8,911,654 tons, and animals and animal products 2,278,858 tons.

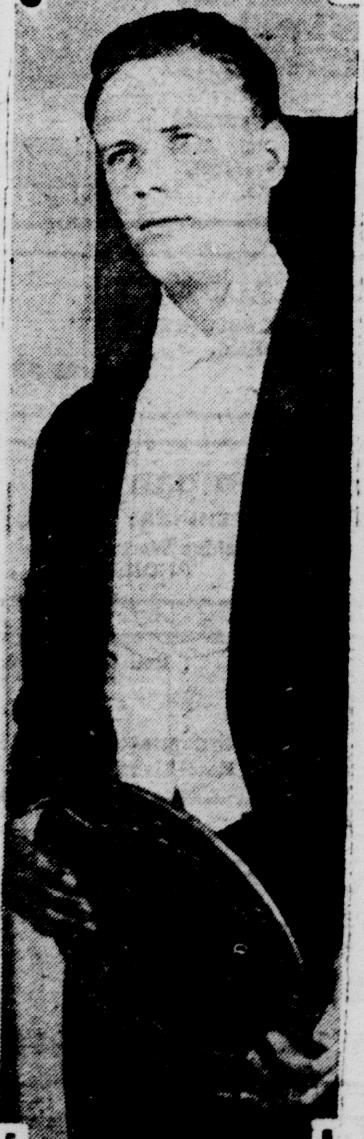

The importance and vast extent of the iron and steel industry in Pennsylvania railroad territory are reflected in the fact that 10,000,000 tons of iron ore, 10,390,000 tons of bar and sheet iron, structural iron and pipe, 2,900,000 tons of pig and bloom iron, and many thousands of additional tons of miscellaneous steel products moved over the company's lines last year.

Building materials, including cement, brick, artificial stone, lime and plaster, reached the large total of 9,800,000 tons, reflecting the continued activity of construction work.

Fresh fruits and vegetables totaled 4,600,000 tons, including 1,300,000 tons of potatoes and 400,000 tons of citrus fruit.

Only Guaranteed Brake Lining Used By Stevenson Co.

Used judiciously, the brakes of your automobile—if they are lined with Johns-Manville material especially prepared for brake service—will last for 10,000 miles, 15,000, maybe more.

The Stevenson Service Station West Ninth street, explains that there are the most important requisites in brake service and the materials of which the lining is made is probably foremost to be considered.

Johns-Manville brake lining is recognized nationally as one of the best forms of lining in use and that the Stevenson company should add it to its line of accessories is only in keeping with the policy of the firm to render service to its patrons that will be satisfactory in every respect.

The Stevenson company's wrecker service is always at the command of the stranded motorist at any place within towing distance of the city. A phone call to 308 at night or 455-J during the day, will bring their wrecker rapidly as it can get over the ground.

And, don't forget, you can keep your car clean during the winter at Stevenson's. They use the new Manly power washer.

You Can Depend on Fresh Products From J. A. Anderson Co.

J. A. Anderson, wholesale dealer in butter, eggs, margarine, cottage cheese, canned milk, and other similar products has been in this line of business in the district for a period of years sufficient to impress upon retail buyers the value of the service that his firm is rendering.

In this particular line of business, quality, of course, must be present to give products a first class rating, but probably more important still, in the eyes of the purchaser, freshness is the outstanding characteristic.

Retail dealers don't have to "stock up" on Anderson's products.

The Anderson company is located right here in town and the storekeeper who sells that brand of goods knows that he can renew his stock at any time and thus make certain of a fresh supply.

And the customer who buys her butter, eggs, milk, etc., from that storekeeper knows she can get fresh supplies there all the time and that fact probably will influence her to buy more things in other lines.

It pays to handle Anderson products this way.

J. C. Bowman Can Add Miles of Service To Your Old Tires

How are you fixed for spring touring this year? Perhaps you have your car thoroughly overhauled and all that, which is fine, but you can't go far, no matter how sweetly the motor works, unless you "overhaul" your tires, too. That doesn't necessarily mean that it is necessary to purchase a new set of tires, although J. C. Bowman can take care of your needs in this respect as well as he can in repair work.

If your tires are in need of vulcanizing or some minor attention such as this, don't discard them. Take them to Bowman and he can tell you how many miles you've got left in them. He has tire repair service second to none and you'll find that dealing with Bowman is always a satisfactory procedure.

He is agent, also, for the Firestone brand of Tires and Tubes, ready sellers in any market. The Firestone, as you know, is the exclusive gum-dipped tire.

Part of Bowman's new shop also is occupied by an automobile repair shop, operated by Norman Pearce, formerly in charge of the repair department for the Stutz and Peerless cars at the Traveler's.

His phone is 23.

River Road Blocks Become Popular as Building Material

It's time to begin the planning of any building or repair work that you have to do this spring.

Have you investigated the possibilities of concrete construction that is, the new way, through blocks like they make at the River Road Block Works here?

The River Road Block works can give you practically anything in the concrete construction line that you may happen to need. George H. Barlow, is ready at any time to show you the numerous ways in which these blocks may be used, and also is equipped with designs that may help you in planning.

As well as the ordinary blocks, the River Road company handles trim stone, sills, doorways, steps, and all kinds of decorative work, all made to specifications.

Their ornamental line of vases, flower boxes, and various kinds of granite and other facings, also is complete.

They guarantee their products.

Newell Lumber Co., Carries High Grade Line for all Jobs

Mayhew Papering And Paint Shop at Your Service Now

To what extent will you go in your spring cleaning? It is necessary now and then to put some fresh paint on your home. Maybe you're tired of cleaning the old wall paper over and over again. Perhaps you could freshen up the interior woodwork with a few coats of varnish stain.

Let J. L. Mayhew be your right hand Lieutenant in this house cleaning business this spring and whatever you deem necessary to freshen things up a bit in this particular line, you can depend upon Mayhew's services.

Mayhew's shop is located in Carolina avenue, Chester. He handles the nationally known brands of paints, stains and varnishes manufactured by the W. M. Lawrence company, of Pittsburgh, and uses them in his contract work.

A wide range of wall papers, with a large selection in the moderately priced field can be inspected at any time at his shop. He'll be glad, too, to furnish estimates on contract work of any kind in the painting or papering line.

EAST END STATE STREET JOB PLANNED

Penn. Avenue-River Road Hook-up Proposed.

Improvement of the old state road, known as State street, from Maple street at the foot of the Pennsylvania avenue hill, near the Garfield school, to the River road, near Ralston's crossing, probably will be undertaken by the city this summer as a means of establishing a connection between Pennsylvania avenue and the River road. Traffic would not be required to pass over Mulberry and St. George streets with the construction of this road.

The proposed improvement would follow the route of the old River road which branched off the present concrete road at the Railroad culvert near the end of St. George street. Little grading would be required to complete this road which would be surfaced with concrete to a width of 20 feet. City solons have tentatively agreed to the proposed job and legislation probably will be introduced at an early date.

There is a possibility that the city will be required to close Pennsylvania

Attention, girls! The age of beauty is here. Faded hair, facial lines wrought by time and worry, irregular features, plumpness of figure—all have been met and conquered.

At least so claims Madame Lina Cavalieri, one-time grand opera star and noted beauty, now head of a new esoteric "religion" of beauty worship.

The feminine world of Paris has been startled by this exotic cult of Loveliness established as the "demi-ciel" in the gay French capital. Aged dames with faces and figures showing ravages of time are motoring in haste to the "edifice" of beauty worship to receive libations of subtly tinted compounds for graying hair.

The rites for attaining physical perfection carried on with an air of Oriental mysticism by Chinese acolytes are guaranteed to produce beauty where ugliness prevailed.

Electric rays, complicated machines, plain old-fashioned mud and modern "face-lifters" decorate the inner precincts of this "Temple of Worship." Slippered attendants dressed in vestments of their sect and with serious mien shuffle softly over carpeted floors bearing beauty-bringing fluids and pastes.

All you have to do is to take along a photograph of your favorite stage or screen beauty. Give the command—"Fix me up!" And lo! the miracle-working elixirations, substitutions, transformations, are under way.

If this beauty cathedral calls you to Paris for Spring overhauling make sure to carry proper identification papers. What would be more catastrophic than for a slender maid of classic features to attempt the trip home on a passport bearing the likeness of a middle-aged matron?

Surely this risk of being denied entrance to home shores must have been overlooked in the new beauty sect's promise to restore youth to old age, vivid life and color to falling, whitish hair and straight lines to swollen forms.

LOCAL WOMAN QUICKLY RELIEVED AFTER THREE YEARS OF TORTURE

Used Many Kinds of Stomach Medicines Without Relief. Did Not Realize She Had Catarrh of the Stomach. Two Bottles of World's Tonic Brought Wonderful Results.

Stopped Gas From Forming in Stomach and Banished Heavy, Dull Feeling in Front and Back of Head and Put Entire System in Good Condition.

"I know there are thousands of people taking medicines for stomach troubles when they really need World's Tonic for Catarrh."

Thus spoke a young woman of this city to the World's Tonic man. White in Carnahan's this young woman heard the World's Tonic representative explaining the merits of World's Tonic to a sufferer of Catarrh and volunteered this information.

"In my opinion there are a great many people, perhaps thousands, just like I was. I know from experience, because I kept taking all kinds of stomach medicines for three years and never had any idea that I was really suffering from catarrh of the stomach until I read the World's Tonic booklet. It describes almost entirely how I was feeling. Nothing I ate agreed with me, gas formed and my heart beat so fast it was hard to get my breath. I had a heavy, dull feeling in front and back of my head most every day. My stomach felt as if it had fire in it. The World's Tonic booklet told just how this was due to catarrh, and so I went to the Drug Store and got a bottle. I have taken the second one and am wonderfully improved. The stomach trouble has disappeared and I am never tired out as before taking World's Tonic."

Hundreds suffer from Catarrh of the head, nose, throat, stomach, bowels, kidneys and other organs. All they realize is that the head is stuffed up most of the time. They don't seem to know that their systemic condition is due to swallowing the poisonous mucus that drips from the head. They treat themselves for headache, sore throat, indigestion, torpid liver, painful kidneys and many other troubles when their real trouble is catarrh. World's Tonic rids them of it, they feel like they have a new lease on life.

Sold at Carnahan's, also C. N. Branigan's, Wellsville, and all other good druggists. (232)

Jack's Cash Demands, Not Eyes, Prompt Retirement Rumors

He's Unable to 'Hear' Rickard's 'Low' Offers

Scoffs at $250,000 Purse for Third Tunney Scrap; Ex-champ, They Say, Wants Flat Guarantee of Not Less Than $450,000.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Hard upon the heels of another of our John's retirement statements, made over the week end, the latest Dempsey story hit Broadway today and this one is authority for the declaration that it isn't bad eyesight, after all, that is driving the great man into self-imposed exile. He can see all right, they say, but has had a lot of trouble with his ears on several occasions during recent months. It seems that he just couldn't hear Rickard at all when the promoter is declared to have offered him a $250,000 guarantee for a third meeting with Tunney.

The comparative modesty of this figure is understood to have been made necessary by the Garden directorate, which was somewhat irked by Mr. Rickard's generosity with other people's money in connection with the Chicago purse. George is supposed to be committed to an attempt to get out from under on the next fight for not more than $300,000, which, of course, is all very uninteresting to our John.

He always was a little hard of hearing when being talked to down in the decimals and the story is that he told Rickard he would have to make his figures longer and loftier. They are said to have split on this point, Rickard declaring that he had a lot of good heavyweights who wanted action and John declaring that George was to go right ahead and give it to them.

The announcement of Dempsey's retirement is said to have followed within a matter of weeks. Just when, if ever, he can be expected to repudiate this announcement may depend on the break he yet might be able to get from the percentage thing, so the story goes.

That the collapse of Rickard's heavy-weight plans gives him reason to believe that this break may come soon is indicated by the message he vouchsafed an eastern man recently. The latter had informed Dempsey that he, the easterner, had been forced, through lack of specific information, to "stall" certain parties on the retirement matter.

M. P., Lutheran Passers Land League Games

Defeat Presbyterian and Baptist Fives.

The Lutherans walloped the Baptists, 41 to 29, and the Methodist Protestants did worse than that to the Presbyterians, the count being 52 to 29, in Sunday School league games Saturday on the "Y" court.

Hall contributed 20 points to the Baptist cause, but his mates failed to keep pace. D. Mackall, Paczek and Mautz were the chief scorers for the winners.

Bailey and Burke led the Methodist Protestant point makers, while Barlow and Kimes topped the Presbyterians.

Beaver high school freshmen walloped Lincoln high freshies with a 24-12 count in a prelim.

Cococh scored two buckets for the Spartans in their futile struggle with the fast Youngstown cagers. The Reynolds brothers offered a good floor game.

Trbovic registered twice for the Blue and Gold frosh.

Both teams were banqueted after the games by the Lincoln freshman A class, sponsored by Miss Mae McKinnon.

Laughlin Is Boss 'Y' Scorer

Nickel Plate Center Piles up 64 Points in Last Half.

BILL LAUGHLIN, holding down the center job for the Nickel Plates, led the 'Y' league in individual scoring for the second half. Laughlin swished the ball through the baskets for 24 buckets and 16 charity points, a total of 64 points. Bettridge, of the B. & O. five, was second in individual point making, scoring 54.

MDLAND, Pa., March 26.—Winning a five pin victory over Engineers in the play-off of a tie game, police department bowlers broke their tie for first place in the league with the Engineers and captured first place in the Pittsburgh Crucible league in the closing game of the schedule.

The two fives knotted their first game of the match and in the remaining two games, each five took one. Police won the play-off by a 661-656 count.

Engineers, who were tied for first place, closed the league with second honors by virtue of their defeat.

Officer and Accounting five won their game from Clippers when the chippers failed to appear on the alleys, and finished in their place. Open heart rollers were tied a week ago with the Accountants, but when they failed to roll their game Friday night, the bookkeepers went ahead.

Blooming mill and Electrical department bowlers maintained their hold on fifth place.

Saperstein finished his league rolling on possession of high average score with an average of 144. Monroe's high individual count of 228 was unchallenged in the final week's rolling and Accountant kept their hold on high team honors with a tally of 194 in three games.

League officials are now making arrangements for division of prizes.

ELLIOTT BEATS BROWNIES, 5 TO 3

WEST PLAM BEACH, Fla., March 26.—Warned by Manager Robinson to take his work more seriously, Jumbo Elliott, Brooklyn's 245-pound southpaw from the Pacific coast, held the St. Louis Browns hitless and runless for five innings. The final score was Brooklyn 5, St. Louis 3.

SOL CALLS OUT GOLFING ARMY

CHICAGO, March 26.—Golfers to the estimated number of 10,000 were massaging sore muscles today as a result of seizing upon Chicago's first balmy Sunday to open the local season.

Seven courses controlled by the city were crowded from daylight to dark. Private courses also reported large attendance. The mercury reached a maximum of 79 degrees.

Salem's 1928 Grid Schedule Is Announced

Open With Louisville; Ten Contests Planned.

SALEM, March 21.—Nine games have been scheduled including the annual Thanksgiving day battle with Alliance and a game with Youngstown South, by Faculty Manager R. P. Vickers of Salem High school for the 1928 football season.

Manager Vickers expects to fill the open date, Nov. 10, with an Akron school. At the present no Akron school is on the card.

Sept. 15 is not filled, and it probably will not be, due to the fact that the schedule will be of ten games.

Louisville will open the season here Sept. 22. It will be remembered that the little school beat Salem last fall at Louisville. It makes a real tough opener.

Leetonia is scheduled for Sept. 29, much earlier than usual, and the game is carded for the Blue's home lot, but because Coach Ray Whittney's team has no suitable home grounds, it may rent Reilly field for the day and have the game here. It would probably be a money-making plan, as well as giving both teams a real place to play in comparison with Kelley's park.

Lisbon will come here Oct. 6, and Salem will then be away two weeks, playing at Warren Oct. 13 and at Wellsville Oct. 20. The Oct. 27 date is to be left open for a rest period.

East Liverpool will open the last half here on Nov. 3, and the Nov. 10 date is to be filled.

Salem goes to Youngstown to meet South Nov. 17. This game, it had been understood, might not go through, but some pressure, it is believed, was brought to bear in Youngstown, and South suffered a change in attitude.

South defeated Salem by one touch down here last fall. Coach Russell Ashbaugh went home in a peevish, due, probably to the outcome of the grid game. Manager Vickers has received the contract from the South officials.

East Palestine will play here Nov. 24, and the Turkey day joust with Alliance is set for Nov. 29. Salem and Alliance will split the gate, 50-50.

As the schedule now stands there are five at home and four away, with one of the latter probably to be played here.

Following a rest of several days, the Yankees will play the St. Louis Cardinals.

Laughlin Defeated by Mt. Union at Sebring

High Passers Make Great Showing, Reaching Semi-finals; Beat Salem High and County League Champions.

OPERATING under the colors of the Homer Laughlin Chinas, the local high school basketball team went to the semifinals in Tom Vernia's Sebring basketball tournament Friday and Saturday, and undoubtedly would have gone to the final had it not been their misfortune in being grouped in the same bracket with the Alliance Lex Sandwich Shops, who prior to the tournament, would have been known as the Mt. Union Varsity.

The Mounts unquestionably were the best quint in the tourney and there is little doubt in the minds of tourney fans that the East Liverpool delegation, headed by George Tasker, was second best, following their successive victories over the Alliance S. A. E., Salem high school and the Damascus Quakers (champions of the county league).

The locals trimmed the Sigma Alpha Epsilon, frat team from Mt. Union, 25 to 13, in their first game. In the second round they licked the Salem Kelly Klowns, who was virtually the Salem high school squad, 38 to 21.

The Damascus Quakers, of the Columbian County amateur circuit, fell victim to the Laughlins in the third round, 38 to 27.

But it is not in a book for a high school team to defeat a collegiate aggregation of the calibre of Mt. Union which has a habit of turning out Ohio conference champions, and so the Chinas, after a brilliant battle, bowed to the Purple, 26 to 19.

The Mounters walloped the Limoges Chinas by a decisive score in the championship game.

GRANTS, N. M., March 26.—C. C. Pyle's bunyon derbys jogged through the Laguna Indian country toward their twenty-third control at old Laguna Pueblo, 34 miles from Grants, today.

Cubero, a bit of old Spain, with its quaint streets and dingy adobe homes, at the foot of Mt. Taylor, 11,368 feet high and covered with millions of feet of pine timber, was midway on the route and here the caravan lunch cars refreshed the runners and walkers.

Yesterday's trek from Thoreau to Grants, 30.5 miles, was one of the most strategic of the 772 miles from Los Angeles, as 12 miles of the jaunt were through detours in the sage strewn desert. The route had been mapped out with the designating arrows to guide the throng and as a result little difficulty was experienced by the field.

Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England, jogged at a grilling pace yesterday when he averaged almost eight miles an hour over the lava bed route.

Here are the leaders together with their elapsed time for the 772.17 miles: 1—Arne Suominen, Detroit, Mich., 131:04:25.

2—Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., 131:19:17.

O'Malley-Welsh Bout Tops Eagles' Mitt Menu Here Tonight

Sluggers Are Matched For Eight-Round Scrap

Frankie Porto, Former Local Favorite, Back in Semi-final With K. O. Sweeney; Edwards Coverts in Four-Rounder.

Making his second appearance in an East Liverpool ring, Steve O'Malley, the fighting Irishman from Bellaire who registered satisfaction to about 650 fight fans here a couple of weeks ago, will swing gloves with Teddy Welsh, the McKeepsporter, in the eight-round main bout at the F. O. E. smoker here tonight.

O'Malley, on the occasion of his first appearance, was matched with a very tough bantam in the person of Cuddy DeMarco of Pittsburgh who outweighed the Belmont countian by a 10 or 12-pound margin.

This weight matter alone sufficed to show that the Irishman is a game ringster who fears no handicaps of this sort. He battled on a toe to toe basis with DeMarco most of the way, exhibiting a pretty left to the custodians, most of whom were rooting for him to connect.

Teddy Welsh, it appears, may have even a tougher fight on his hands than he did here with Sig Keppen. Welsh, however, has been growing since his licking at the hands of his brother townsmen, Phil Scello, in the Tube City the other night and probably will not be in a very playful mood tonight. Welsh carries a nice wallop; so does O'Malley, which ought to make the scrap look good, from the spectators' viewpoint.

K. O. Sweeney, of Mingo, who registered a decision win over Young Buckman of Wheeling last Monday, will tackle Young Porto, or Frankie Portogala as he was known when he performed for Joe Armshaw here several years ago, in the six-round semi-final. It will mark Porto's first appearance in a local ring since his fights for Armshaw.

Fredie Edwards, the Chester welterweight who has become a favorite with fight fans as a result of not only his string of victories since donning the gloves in the F. O. E. arena, but because of his conduct and style inside the ropes, is back again to night. This time he goes on with Jack Covert, ex-army bantam who used to bowl 'em over on the Mexican border.

Covert is a foxy chap and knows game well, but Edwards has the stamina of youth on his side. They are slated for four rounds.

Ike Anthony, of Youngstown, former East Liverpool man, is paired off with Eddie Rose of the East End, in the four-round opener.

This then, is the card, as announced by Matchmaker McDonough, that will go on tonight unless substitutions occur at the last moment.

The opening bout is billed for 8:15.

SKULL PRACTICE FOR NAT SQUAD

TAMPA, Fla., March 26.—"Skull practice" was on the program for the Senators today. Two more games here, with the Cardinals Tuesday and Wednesday, and the Senators head north for a few exhibition games en route to Washington.

Midland Votes Glumac, Rosen Most Valuable

Cage, Grid Stars Honored by Varsity M Club.

MIDLAND, Pa., March 26.—Morris Rosen and Louis Glumac were voted the most valuable athletes turned out by Lincoln high school this year at a meeting of members of the Varsity M. club. Rosen was chosen for his work on the Blue and Gold grid squad and Glumac for his cake prowess, which made him second high score man of his division of the W. P. I. A. L.

When selecting Glumac and Rosen, the Varsity club, composed of winners of the varsity athletic letter, decided to make a similar selection of the "most valuable" player in each sport yearly.

Winners of the honor will select either sweater or loving cup as trophy.

RISKO'S MANAGER TO SEE McMAHON

CLEVELAND, March 26.—Danny Dunn, manager of Johnny Risko, recent conqueror of Jack Sharkey, and a contender for Gene Tunney's heavyweight crown, is planning to leave for New York tonight for a conference with Jess McMahon, Madison Square Garden matchmaker.

Dunn said McMahon called him by telephone early Sunday and extended an invitation to a New York meeting.

Dunn declared he was under the impression the call might have something to do with efforts to select an opponent for Tunney in a championship bout in July.

Two prelims have been arranged.

SCHALK'S SQUAD GORED BY STEERS

DALLAS, Tex., March 26.—After hammering themselves into 9-to-3 lead over the Dallas Steers, Ray Schalk's faltering White Sox, through the inefficiency of Pitchers Connally and Cox, faltered some more and allowed the Steers to lop out in front, 10 to 9. It was a heartbreaker for the Hoss to lose. Dallas pounded out 17 hits against 13 for the Sox.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The New York Celts are the professional basketball champions of the world. They clinched the title by defeating Fort Wayne, western champions, here last night by a score of 27 to 26 in the fourth game of the series. The Hoosiers won only one of the games.

Trailing by a score of 16 to 4 at the end of the first half, the Hoosiers staged two great rallies in the second period but just failed to catch up with the Shamrocks.

Davey Banks was the individual star, scoring eleven points for the Celts with five field goals and a foul loss.

Laughlin and Katies Complete Player Deal

Herbert and Heckathorne go to Ohio Potters in Trade for Simcox and Merchant, Subject to League Approval.

MANAGERS JOE DICKEY of the Homer Laughlin City league club and Saul McCoy of the K. T. K. club announce the completion of the first league player deal of the season in which Herbert and Heckathorne, Laughlin infielders, are sent to the Ohio Potters for Heckathorne and Simcox, also infielders.

The trade, naturally, will be subject to the approval of league managers who meet tomorrow night in the chamber of commerce rooms re-organized for the 1928 campaign.

Herbert held down the hot corner for the Laughlins last season and did good job of it. Heckathorne, a left hander, played first for the West Virginians, alternating occasionally with Lee Babb against left-hand pitching.

Simcox, of the Katies, is a regular third sacker, but was used to a great extent in the outfield by McCoy last season. Merchant is a first baseman and a strong defensive performer.

The league meeting originally was called for tonight but has been postponed until Tuesday.

Stolen Idols

A Romance of the Sea
By Frank L. Packard.

And then a mighty shout came welling up from the full heart of the man—and again—and still again. The shouts were lost in the sweep of the wind and the roar of the sea, but he was unconscious of that. He saw the boat again—glimpsed it for an instant—still battling its way onward. Good old Carter! The man was hurt, wounded, perhaps seriously so, perhaps even near his end, but he'd win through. Once over the reefs there was comparatively sheltered water. Carter would make it. He, Bob Kingsley, was somehow sure of that now, sure as one is sometimes sure when, deep in one's soul, there comes, from no apparent outward or physical cause, the knowledge that it will be so.

He turned away. He could not follow the boat any more, or hope to see it again—it was hidden now somewhere out there beyond in the darkness. And now for the first time he took stock of his own position. The Monotah seemed to have struck the reef almost bow on, and to be hanging there as though on a hook. The sea was breaking aft over the lower deck. The stern of the ship was lower—sinking, in fact. It was obviously merely a question of time—whether ten minutes or an hour. When the stern had sunk low enough to upturn the bow sufficiently, the Monotah would slip backward and go down in the deep water at the outer edge of the reef.

He stared around him. Where had they gone—those who had been left on board? There must have been at least ten of them—all natives. There had been some women and children, too. All crazed, of course! They weren't here now. They didn't know what a life-belt was, much less know where to find one on the ship. Not much good—a life-belt! Almost a mockery! The only chance, though! Better round up the poor devils, and do what he could.

A sea boiled over the lower deck. The bow lifted, seem to slip, then pound down again—and hold. Bob Kingsley was picking his way along the deck now. There wasn't anybody here—except the silent forms that sprawled grotesquely in the darkness. Three white uniforms! He didn't count the native, but one of the latter had on cotton trousers with a gaudy design that stood out even in the darkness—huge flowers—probably red! How many times would the Monotah repeat that last performance—and hold? A fish very insecurely hooked!

He came to a sudden halt. On the deck at his feet was one of the three white uniforms. The man seemed to have moved—or was it merely as some limp, inanimate thing would have moved with the swaying of the ship? None of the other forms lying here on the deck seemed to move, though! He stooped quickly down, and stared into the man's face. It was Parsons.

CHAPTER 20.

Cries reached Bob Kingsley now from the other side of the deck: women's cries, shrill, hysterical; men's voices shouting, confused, excited. He ran in that direction, and came around on the port side. This was what Parsons had meant. A boat jammed in the davits! There she was, wedged tightly enough, the nose of her slithered across the deck. And around the boat now, but only rendering each other's efforts abortive in their mad eagerness for life, the men who were left, and the women, and even a child or two, tugged and pulled frantically, some this way and some the other.

A boat! There was a chance, then! There was nothing the matter with the boat. A glance showed him that it needed only cool, concerted effort to free her and swing her out from the davit falls again. And flashing through his mind, as he sprang forward now, was a mental picture, amplifying those last few graphic words of Parsons, of what must have happened here. This boat that remained was probably the first that was being made ready for launching—and in panic the natives had all rushed for it before it was barely clear of the docks. And then hell had broken loose, and there had been no chance with a raving mob amuck of clearing her. It had been the next boat, and the next, and the next, then. And these had certainly only been launched (even if they swamped later on, as Parsons had said), because Captain Karler and most of the officers—there were two more white uniforms lying here on the port side—had gone down fighting in an effort to hold back the maddened tide. A fight going on around each boat simultaneously so that there might even be a chance of swinging it outboard! God's mercy! And now, with mind and reason gone, these last few maniacs, save that they were not actually stabbing each other with knives, were as suicidal and murderous in what they were about as ever!

He was amongst them now. He pushed two women and a whimpering child aside; and then his voice rose in cool, sharp command.

"Come over to this side!" he ordered in broken Malay. "All of you! Lift her here!"

For a moment they paid no heed to him. He caught one man by the shoulders, forced the other's hands down on the gunwhale, and by gestures demonstrated what he wanted done. He called again to the others, less sharply this time, more quietly, reassuringly.

"Like this!" he said. "All of you!"

They came then, clustering around him.

"Now!" he cried cheerily. "Up with—"

A sudden blackness came before his eyes. He was conscious that he had been struck a vicious blow on the back of the head; he felt his hands relax their hold; he heard a strange, confused mingling of cries—and then in semi-consciousness he was aware that he was being roughly dragged along the deck.

This state of semi-consciousness continued for a short period, and during this time, in a dazed, blurred way, he realized that he had been taken into a cabin, and that, lying there on the floor, his arms and legs had been tightly bound. And then his head began to clear. There was a light in his face now—a light that was held very close to his face. Something hot fell upon his cheek—a candle drip. A man was bending over him. The man's features took form—yellow features—the features of a Chinaman.

With an involuntary cry and with a sudden jerk, Bob Kingsley attempted to gain his feet—and was almost immediately flung violently back again. He was fully conscious now. The Chinaman! Queer, that he should have forgotten about the Chinaman! Perhaps he hadn't actually forgotten—perhaps he had merely dismissed them temporarily from his mind because of a subconscious belief that they had got off in one of the boats that had been swamped. But there were two of them now. They looked strangely unfamiliar. What was it? What was the matter with them. Ah, yes! He had it now. They were indescribably dirty. Their clothing and faces were covered with grime. They were the same Chinaman, though. The one that held the candle was the one who had acted as master of ceremonies in the store-room and had broken the stick into five pieces. The man had a bent nose. Unconsciously that fact must have impressed itself on his mind back there in the store-room—he remembered the bent nose now.

Bob Kingsley's eyes shifted from the Chinaman's face, and circled the cabin. It must be Captain Karler's cabin because there was no other cabin on this deck that he knew of, and he was quite sure that he had been dragged only along the boat deck. The cabin was in some disorder—due no doubt to the shock of impact when the ship had struck. A cup of coffee or tea, which perhaps Captain Karler had ordered left in his room, intending to return from the bridge and dress, but which he had never had an opportunity of drinking, was spilled upon the desk; some biscuits together with plates were scattered into several pieces. Inconsequential details! Perhaps it was because he was still not fully in possession of his mental faculties that he had noticed them at all. A cup of coffee biscuits and a broken plate! Yes, he must be a bit mad! His lips were dry—he moistened them with his tongue. Why a cabin at all? They knew him, of course, to be the one who had tried to save the pretended "holy man"—the murderer would have recognized him all too readily. Those damned glasses! But why not have finished the job out there on the deck? Why drag him in here to put the finishing touches to their revenge? Didn't the fools know that the Monotah was going down? Where had they been all the time, anyhow? He would have picked them out as the first to see to it that they were not left behind!
